Rioters Attempt to Stage Demonstration in Front of Parliament—Battle Continues for Hours in Lambeth District—Westminster Bridgehead Stormed—Stores Are Looted

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP).—The metropolitan police intercepted a rush on Parliament Square by an organized crowd of several thousand jobless men today and rioting ensued. The disorder occurred in the poorer class Lambeth section, just across the Thames from the historic House of Parliament, where the National Government had just re-assembled.

The police were successful in turning back the demonstrators, but not until six or seven hours battling in hand-to-hand fashion had disturbed the quiet of ancient Lambeth. Then came looting by rowdy youths, and when order was restored around 11 p.m., scores had been injured, at least twenty of them seriously.

The demonstration began late in the afternoon when several thousand unemployed began to march toward the Parliament Buildings from various thoroughfares on the south side of the Thames. The authorities said the men had been marshalled by the leaders of the Communist National Unemployed Workers' Organization.

Reserves were called immediately and all approaches to Parliament Square were guarded, although the demonstrators were permitted to pass in front of the new London County Council Hall, which is just across Westminster Bridge from Parliament.

In fact, the start of the demonstration was very peaceful and escorted by police. Banners waved and bands blared.

Then came a rush for Westminster bridgehead, a prelude to a dash for the forbidden territory of Parliament Square, where a demonstration for additional unemployment relief apparently had been planned.

As the afternoon wore on, it was apparent that the police were going to be successful in their effort to

CHILDREN SHOT IN FRONT YARD

Three Youngsters Peppered With Small Shot—Wounds Not Serious

SEATTLE, Oct. 18.—Shooting in their own front yard near Redmond, a short distance east of here, three young children were shot by an unnamed Seattle physician on October 1, Sheriff Claude G. Bannick revealed today.

The story first reached his office as he began a "week-end" of the youngsters, Albert, six; Gladys, four; and Donald, two children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peterson, were operated on at a hospital here today. They had been under the care of a Redmond physician, who had advised against operations.

None of the wounds are considered serious.

The doctor, whose name was withheld by attorney for Peterson, a farmer, pending a "week-end" was using seven-and-a-half-gauge shot. Albert received five pellets in the head, one in the left arm, the left shoulder and the back of the knee; Gladys was hit once in the small of the back, and Donald, four times in the head, once in the elbow, the chest and the right thigh.

Al Capone Tries For His Freedom

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 18 (AP).—Prisoner 40886 will put aside his blue-grey denim uniform tomorrow or Thursday and "beatface" Al Capone, Chicago's erstwhile gang chief, will emerge from the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary to wage a desperate legal battle for his freedom.

Hearing of Capone's petition for a writ of habeas corpus has been set in Federal Court here tomorrow.

The gangster is serving a ten-year sentence for violation of the income tax laws in 1926, 1927 and 1928, and seeks his freedom on the contention that the statute of limitations prevents his imprisonment on the charges on which he was convicted.

WILL TRY AGAIN TO GET TRANSPORTATION

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18 (CP).—Farmers who marched the ninety miles from the district about Argov, north of the provincial capital, today decided to ask for a further interview with Premier John Bracken tomorrow in an endeavor to get the Government to pay their transportation back home.

In the meantime they are being fed in the Ukrainian Labor Hall and the Workers' Centre and are being billeted in private homes about the city.

Britain Takes Steps to End Soviet Agreement As Arranged at Ottawa

Premier MacDonald Says Imperial Conference Made Possible World Gathering

NEW TREATIES ARE BEING NEGOTIATED

"This is the most encouraging news that I have received for some time," declared Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Lands, in commenting on the statement of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, that the Soviet trade agreement with Great Britain would be denounced.

"Under Article 21 of the Ottawa agreement, the United Kingdom agreed not to permit dumping to the detriment of Dominion products. The action of the British Government is along the lines implied in the agreement. Russian lumber, particularly, has been competing unfairly with Canadian timber. State owned, the industry paid only wages and transportation, making no return on invested capital, paying no royalties, taxes or other charges.

"The news today signifies that the British Government intends to fulfill to the letter the implied terms as well as the written contract.

"It is indeed welcome news to British Columbia."

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald ended the first day's debate on the Ottawa Imperial Conference tonight by telling the House of Commons that the forthcoming World Economic Conference could not have been held had the Ottawa pact been failed.

He was willing, Mr. MacDonald said, to stand before the world conference over which he would preside, and tell its members failure at Ottawa would have rendered their meeting impossible.

OPPOSITION ATTACK

The Prime Minister's remarks came at the end of a long day of debate on the agreements signed between the United Kingdom and the Dominion of Canada, and the Dominion of the Empire's affairs are pictured above. Premier Ramsay MacDonald faces much criticism from his former Labor followers. Sir Herbert Samuel will lead the attack on the Government, from which he recently resigned. Sir John Simon will explain the foreign relations of the Empire, and Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin will lead the Nationalist forces in ratifying the Ottawa agreements.

Trade Agreements Hotly Debated in House at Ottawa

Hon. Dr. Manion Leads Gov't Forces in Defence as Front Benchers Argue Warmly Over Imperial Treaties—Liberals Attack Protective Clauses

OTTAWA, Oct. 18 (CP).—Big guns boomed in Parliament today when the Imperial Conference trade agreements were reviewed. Front benchers on both sides swung into the debate, the Liberals in full cry against the treaties, the Conservatives in solid support.

Every seat in the galleries was occupied as succeeding Liberals condemned the high tariff features of the Canada-United Kingdom treaty and protested against linking together the domestic politics of the two countries.

Mitchell Hepburn, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, threw out the chief case for the Government. In his staccato style, almost a verbal barrage, he called for a fair trial for the treaties, declaring them to be in the best interests of Canada and the Empire.

Abrogation of the Anglo-Russian treaty, announced in London today, was one of the early results of the conference, Dr. Manion said. And there would be five weeks, was expected for the treaty, including several British officials and Captain Kawahito, of the Imperial Japanese sendamerie, left here today in an armored train to take steps looking to speeding up the negotiations.

Destination of the train was Panahan, in the Manchurian interior. Three weeks ago a peasant reported Mrs. Pansy and Cockran, the bandit chieftain still stood on the enormous demand he made some time ago for the release of his captives. At the beginning of the month he asked cash amounting to $300,000, in addition to 200 ounces of the finest opium, five bales of silk, sixty wrist watches, 100 gold rings, two machine guns with 200,000 rounds of ammunition, and six light automobiles with 200,000 more rounds.

Party Leaves in Armored Train to Hasten Release of Captives

YINGCHOW, Manchuria, Oct. 18 (CP).—Immediate renewal of negotiations for the release of Mrs. Pansy and Cockran, British subjects held by bandits for more than five weeks, was expected for the treaty, including several British officials and Captain Kawahito, of the Imperial Japanese sendamerie, left here today in an armored train to take steps looking to speeding up the negotiations.

Three weeks ago a peasant reported Mrs. Pansy and Cockran, the bandit chieftain still stood on the enormous demand he made some time ago for the release of his captives. REPORTS THAT ALL QUIET AT PENITENTIARY

Superintendent Estimates Damage Small as Result of Recent Outbreak

SAYS STATEMENTS MUCH EXAGGERATED

OTTAWA, Oct. 18 (CP).—Total damage to material and buildings at Port Arthur penitentiary as a result of yesterday's revolt amounts to $700. This statement was made by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, tonight, following long distance telephone conversations with General Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries. Mr. Guthrie says General Ormond to Kingston this morning.

"The superintendent was in Kingston today inquiring into the general situation," the Minister of Justice stated. "He says that many statements contained in newspaper dispatches sent out from Kingston are very much exaggerated.

"Today matters were normal throughout the prison and all quiet. The damage done to material and buildings was comparatively slight and the superintendent estimates the amount at $700.

"The department will await the report of the superintendent before coming to any decision in regard to the occurrence."

CONVICT STATEMENT

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 18 (CP).—The outbreak in Port Arthur penitentiary yesterday was contemplated for some time, according to a statement made today by The Border Cities Star by prisoner No. 1809, who was released from the institution yesterday.

Trouble broke out about 8:30 yesterday morning, according to this man, who was just ready for discharge and was put on the train at noon by penitentiary officials.

"All hell broke loose just after breakfast," he said, and added that a part of the preconcerted plan was the execution of a "rough" guard named Lake, but he was not in evidence yesterday. Number 1809 says there was a "tip off" somewhere.

The food and the fact that prisoners were given toilet paper with which to roll their cigarettes were credited by 1809 as major causes for the trouble.

THROTTLER MAY BE IN CUSTODY

Demented Man Held by Winnipeg Police in Hospital for Observation

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18 (CP).—A man, tallying in some respects to the description of the "mad throtter" who attacked four women in the city during the past week, is being held for observation in the psychiatric ward of Winnipeg General Hospital, police announced late tonight.

Mentally demented, the man, standing more than six feet in height, was taken into custody by city police Monday night, after his actions had aroused suspicion.

While he is being held under close observation, city detectives are checking up on his activities of the past week.

The man was arrested about two hours after Mrs. Rachel Brookler, a north-end resident, reported to police her husband had frustrated an attack on her by the "throtter." Police refused to divulge his name. Victims of the "throtter" will be taken to the hospital tomorrow in an attempt to identify the man.

Starting his campaign of terror a week ago Monday night, the "throtter" attacked his first victim, a young domestic inflicting such injuries that she required hospital treatment. Three other women were attacked in a similar manner, grabbed from behind, choked and thrown to the ground, but the attacker fled frightened by their screams or approaching pedestrians.

Developing Gold Claims at Carmi

Promising indications in the development of a lode-gold property at Carmi, north of Grand Forks, were reported to officials of the Department of Mines yesterday by a member of a Vancouver syndicate that is developing six Crown granted mineral claims at the site.

The first early showings of quartz was taken to Trail recently, with twelve men steadily employed at the mine.

Plans by the syndicate contemplate construction of a siding on the Kettle Valley line to facilitate shipments, it was intimated.

CHARLES DICKENS' SON RETIRES FROM BENCH

He will be eighty-four next January, but he is mentally very alert in spite of his age.

POLICE HANDLE UNRULY CROWD

One Arrested at Port Arthur—Batsmen Used to Scatter Demonstrators

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 18 (CP).—Five hundred unemployed, who gathered around the home of Mayor Ibbelton intent upon staging a demonstration, were routed by police early tonight. One demonstrator was arrested.

City, Provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police dispersed the demonstrators from the neighborhood of the mayor's home. A second gathering was attempted on Bay Street, where unemployed have held recent meetings, but the men were kept on the move by a large detachment of police.

Acute since the ban on freight-car riding went into effect eighteen days ago, the situation reached a serious turn today when relief authorities announced the distribution of free meal tickets to transients would have to be canceled. In the last two days some 2,000 meal tickets have been handed out by city authorities.

Mayor Ibbelton reported the situation to Ottawa, claiming the care of the transients should be a Federal responsibility, but tonight stated he had received no reply to two telegrams sent Premier R. B. Bennett.

BATONS IN PLAY
Derivative shouts greeted a group of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and when the officers attempted to break up the gathering, they were met by stubborn resistance. Batons were brought into play before the crowd finally was scattered.

In wild retreat the mob broke fences of nearby homes, ran over flower beds and did considerable damage. Later the police apprehended Daryson.

No calls had been issued for auxiliary forces, the authorities declaring they had the situation well in hand tonight.

THE CHILD'S BIRTHRIGHT
"People who made the most out of life are found to have been the ones who didn't think of money, reputation or fame," he continued.

"Teach your child what he can do for advancement of humanity; teach him how to get the most out of life. If you neglect to do this you are cheating him of his birthright."

A brief talk on the minister's address was delivered by J. S. Gordon, superintendent of schools, who made several illuminative references to the speech of the evening.

BRITAIN TAKES STEPS TO END SOVIET AGREEMENT AS ARRANGED AT OTTAWA

country—Norway, Sweden and Denmark—its readiness to open tariff negotiations with each and that it would continue negotiations with the Argentine.

In a lengthy exposition, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, led debate in support of the Ottawa agreement. He told the House the agreement laid a solid foundation for Empire prosperity that would be reflected throughout the world.

He defined British policy as, firstly, aiming to protect home markets, and secondly, to give an expanding share of the import market in the United Kingdom to the Dominions.

Expected sharp battling between resigned Liberal free trade ministers and their old Cabinet colleagues packed both benches and galleries. Neither spectators nor members were disappointed, for the question hour, with its rapid fire of interjection, was reminiscent of the exciting days which preceded the last general election.

HOUSE EXCITED
Even before debate started the House was keyed to a high pitch of excitement by the announcement regarding the Soviet and proposed tariff negotiations.

Mr. Chamberlain in his exposition held the agreement struck a new note of hope and confidence in imperial relations. He said they would check what he termed a danger to the Empire which had arisen before the conference.

"... Canada had become to a great extent dependent upon United States finance, and in the absence of any preferential arrangement with the United Kingdom, she might have found it extremely difficult to meet her obligations."

Mr. Chamberlain argued, Canada and Australia had given up the idea that their home markets were the reserve entirely of their home manufacturers.

Alone, he held, was of the utmost importance to the British manufacturer.

OF HIGH VALUE
Furthermore, he contended, the fact that the British manufacturer was to be given a fair competitive chance in the Dominion markets, that tariff negotiations were to be taken out of politics and entrusted to an impartial tariff commission—that was a change of policy which had enormous possibilities.

The police steadily gained the upper hand, however, and the trouble would have been over had not gangs of rowdy youths taken advantage of the turmoil to commence looting.

They chose dingy Marsh Street to start. A tailor lost an entire window display. A candy store was wrecked. A huge lump of concrete crashed through a radio shop window, and the proprietor fended off the crowd with a cudgel.

Not Insane but Poor Speculator
SEATTLE, Oct. 18.—The losing of money in the stock market was held by Superior Judge Robert S. Macfarlane today to be not sufficient evidence of insanity, in declining plea to appoint a guardian.

"If losing money in the stock market crash of 1929 were to be considered evidence of insanity," the judge commented, "over one-half of the people in the United States would have to be adjudged insane."

EDWARD Barnes, Toronto butcher, and father of seven children, was adjusting his tie, preparatory to going out, when he was informed that he had won $35,000 in the Irish sweepstake draw. It was news to him. Among the things Mr. Barnes is going to buy with the money is a house. The photographs show: (1) Edward Barnes, holder of two sweepstake tickets, one of which is worth about $35,000; (2) Eleanor, one of Mr. Barnes' four daughters; (3) John, fifteen, one of his three sons, a pupil at De La Salle School; (4) the two sweepstake tickets Mr. Barnes holds.

"I think," Sir Herbert said, "the House would be well advised to press upon the Government that assent of the Dominions should be obtained to inserting a six months' termination clause to get rid of this constitutional objection."

In Boniface Street, under the shadow of the walls of Lambeth Palace, where for seven centuries Archbishops of Canterbury have lived, three bobbies were trapped by a surging throng. Frantic whistles brought reinforcements, but not before one officer dropped under a barrage of rocks and bottles.

Other ancient streets close by the towering ecclesiastical precincts saw crisp fighting, and nightfall found St. Thomas' Hospital, nearby, a virtual clearing house for casualties.

CYCLISTS ARE GIVEN WARNING

Lights and Reflectors Must Be Shown—Use of Fire-crackers Restricted

Chief of Police Thomas Heatley yesterday warned all bicyclists with regard to the penalties imposed for failure to carry proper lights and reflectors on their machines.

The warning was issued due to a number of complaints that have been received and due to the early nightfalls now. The chief said that each bicycle must carry a headlamp firmly attached to the machine. Flashlights that are turned on only momentarily will not be tolerated, he declared.

Bicyclists also must carry reflectors on the rear mudguard, and care should be taken that these reflectors are of the approved type and of such reflecting qualities that bicycles will not constitute a menace to motor traffic.

SALE OF FIRECRACKERS
The chief also issued a warning against the sale of firecrackers. As Halloween approaches the sale of firecrackers becomes a problem. The chief has received complaints that minors have been buying and setting off these explosives.

No store is permitted to sell to a minor under the age of sixteen years. Adults may buy the firecrackers so long as they supervise the exploding of them. There is no desire to spoil children's fun, the chief said, but there must be some control, otherwise fatalities might result, or injuries inflicted of a serious character.

TRADE AGREEMENTS HOTLY DEBATED IN HOUSE AT OTTAWA

"cunningness and brilliance of protectionists."

Canada was binding its hands in treaty negotiations with foreign countries, said Mr. Malcolm. It could not seek the rich trade of the Orient because no reciprocal tariff concessions could be offered Japan, China, and, remember, the British Empire alone cannot consume Canada's wheat, lumber, nickel, aluminum, paper and a half-dozen other commodities.

The problem facing the country was to open world markets, yet the treaty added to this difficulty.

PREDICTS DISASTER
Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice, said the Government, in negotiating the treaty with the United Kingdom, was following its general policy of "intensifying the world crisis and sapping the strength of the nation."

It was a policy fraught with disaster, not only to Canada but to the Empire.

The debate went on all day, with Henry Bourassa, Quebec Independent, hammering away at both parties; Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Agriculture Minister, attacking the wheat and bacon provisions of the treaty, and others adding their contributions.

The "smug self-assurance of free traders" was the subject of comment by Hon. R. J. Manion. They always appeared quite satisfied that they were right.

NO COERCION
Both Mr. Lapointe and the leader of the Opposition appeared to think that Great Britain had been coerced into making the agreement, continued Mr. Manion.

"We would like to know when Great Britain ever allowed herself to be coerced," he commented. The attitude taken by British statesmen in negotiating the conference, in his opinion, was a disgrace.

He believed, declared Dr. Manion, that the whole tariff had been lowered as a result of the agreement.

"There are two sides to these agreements," continued the Minister of Railways. "One important object we had in view was to sell more of our goods, and if we did get a little better of the bargain, I don't know that we should quarrel with ourselves." He was not saying that Canada had necessarily got the best of the bargain. All parts of the Empire had received benefits, he thought.

SUCCESS ADMITTED
"Far-minded Canadians throughout Canada admit the success of this agreement and want it given a fair trial," said the speaker. "It is a victory for the whole Empire—a magnificent result he added. And yet the leader of the Opposition opposes it."

"Parliament can throw out the whole agreement if it wishes to do so," said Dr. Manion. The hands of Parliament were not tied. As a matter of fact, the Opposition leader had been "juggling with words" a good deal of the time that he spoke.

"He misrepresented clauses of the agreement," asserted Dr. Manion sharply. "He surpassed himself in constitutional shadow boxing."

"The Opposition leader is a free trader when out of power and practices protectionism when in power," the continued the minister. When Mr. King headed the Government, tariffs were being "jacked up" against Canada in the United States. The attitude of the Opposition leader was that nothing must be done to offend that country.

"The United States kicked us around like a rag doll and he did not retaliate," said Dr. Manion in respect to Mr. King.

Canada now had a free market in Great Britain. Formerly she had a free market, but in competition with the world.

BANKER'S TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

Extradition Hearing Against Charles Walters to Be Concluded Tomorrow

Presentation in court of a certificate for 2,120 shares of bank stock which United States Attorney Moore swore was in the name of Charles E. Walters, and which turned out to be in the name of the Bankers' Holding Corporation, the only new development in the hearing of extradition proceedings against Charles E. Walters, former Washington State Bank president, fighting return to the United States to face a Federal warrant charging grand larceny.

The hearing was continued before County Court Judge Peter S. Lampman during yesterday, and was adjourned until Thursday morning. All evidence for the prosecution was in the record.

ADmits ERROR

Attorneys William Tucker and Ewing D. Colvin, giving evidence earlier in the proceedings, testified they had both seen the stock certificate for 2,120 shares of bank stock, alleged to have been pledged as collateral for a loan, and that the certificate was in the name of Charles E. Walters, Stuart Henderson, counsel for Mr. Walters, produced the certificate in question, and it was shown to have been issued to the Bankers' Holding Corporation. Mr. Tucker admitted he might have been mistaken, but Mr. Colvin was positive the certificate was in the name of the accused.

The warrant charging Charles Walters and his son, Ralph, with grand larceny, was made on the information of Morton Moore of Auburn, Washington, who claims he purchased $2,450 worth of stock in Bankers' Holding Corporation, and that he was persuaded to invest in the company by false pretences on the part of Charles Walters and his son. The transaction took place December 1929, and at that time the corporation was alleged to be controlled by Charles Walters. The corporation was organized for the purpose of buying out or controlling other banks in the State of Washington. Federal authorities allege that the stock of the bank had been pledged for loans made to the corporation.

STILL HAS STOCK

Henry A. Bruenn, president of the First State Bank of Bremerton, was a witness yesterday. He said he had purchased $8,750 of stock of the Bankers' Corporation for the purpose of securing a position as cashier of the Bremerton Bank. He had also been retained by the corporation to solicit other banks to come into the Holding Corporation, but found they were not coming in when they learned that fifty shares of the corporation were to be held as management stock and the balance of 250,000 shares was nonvoting. He left the corporation when he discovered that stock was being sold to bank depositors. He also stated he had a contract with Mr. Walters that the corporation would repurchase his stock at three months' notice. He still has the stock, he testified, and Mr. Bruenn said that he did not purchase the stock in the corporation until after he had satisfied himself that the transaction had the support of the corporation's bankers. He had known Mr. Walters for twenty-eight years, and had previous dealings with him, and of which turned out satisfactory. George A. Bucklin, United States Consul here, testified he was aware, through the United States Legation at Ottawa, that a formal requisition had been made by his country for the extradition of Mr. Walters and his son.

DEFINE GRAND LARCENY

At the afternoon hearing, C. L. Harrison, who is conducting the case for the prosecution, presented both Mr. Tucker and Mr. Colvin, who affirmed that they had heard at the inquiry constituted grand larceny as defined in the statutes of the State of Washington.

The hearing was interrupted when Mr. Henderson insisted that a copy of the treaty on extradition between Canada and the United States be entered in the record. Mr. Harrison asked leave of the court to file it, and an adjournment was taken at 4 o'clock. The proceedings now going on concern only Charles E. Walters, and a new hearing will be undertaken in connection with the application for the return of Ralph Walters. Mr. Walters, Sr., was apprehended at his home here early in September, and Ralph Walters returned to Victoria to assist his father. Both men are being held in custody.

The proceedings were instituted by the United States authorities in September. The alleged acts of grand larceny are said to have occurred in 1929, and Charles Walters did not leave the United States until January this year. Up to the end of 1930 he had been employed with a banking institution in Seattle, it was stated at the hearing yesterday.

GIVES ADDRESS ON EARTHQUAKES

F. Napier Denison Tells Kiwanis Club of Research Work Carried On

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club yesterday, F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Meteorological Observatory here, gave an interesting account of the instruments which were in use at the Gonzales station, coupling with it scientific information relative to earthquakes. There had been in commission in Victoria seismographs since 1898. The only one that preceded it in Canada was the one in Toronto installed the year previous to that.

There had been recorded by the instruments here 4,000 earthquakes from all parts of the world. There were two instruments installed here, the latest being one of the Milne-Shaw type, representing the last gift of Professor Milne to the nation. This was a most delicate one, and Mr. Denison pointed out that this was illustrated by the fact that while the instrument was placed on a solid rock, the pressure of the hand on the corner of the cement block affected the instrument.

EARTHQUAKE ZONE

The presence of the seismograph here for scientific purposes was due to the fact that the great earthquake of 1906, which was felt all over the Pacific Ocean. He traced the zone of weakness which passed the West Coast of Vancouver Island on up to Alaska, where it was quite a recent one, and down the Asiatic Coast to the Philippines and on towards Australia. It crossed to South America and thence to the Gulf of Mexico. Another branch passed off the Asiatic Coast by way of the Himalaya Mount and on to Italy, crossing the Atlantic where it was quite a recent one, and down the Newfoundland coast where it occurred a few years ago, twelve miles from the surface of the earth and was much slower.

The speaker said that earthquakes were confined to the outer crust of the earth, which represented about sixty or seventy miles in depth over the earth's surface. Below that the earth appeared from scientific investigation to be fairly permanent.

THREE MAIN TYPES

In receiving records of 'quakes three main types of waves were depended upon, which varied in the length of time of their being received. One was the primary, which came directly; a second one was known as the transverse, which took somewhat longer, while a third came around by the surface of the earth and was much slower.

Mr. Denison spoke of the co-operation which was being given him in attempts to find something of the relation of coal mine disturbances to other phenomena. Through the courtesy of the Department of Mines of the Province, Mr. Denison said, instruments designed by himself had been placed in the Fernie collieries and investigations were being carried out.

Jubilee Graduates Enjoy Programme

Fifty graduates of the Jubilee Hospital attended the social held by the Alumnae Association on Monday evening at the Nurses' Home. Miss J. Moore, the president, was in the chair. Moore; a duet by Misses Schroeder and Rosseter, "Drink to Me Only"; and "Early One Morning." and humorous readings by Mrs. Downes, "Fed Up" and "It Doesn't Matter." Miss Hood and Miss M. Mitchell were the accompanists. A social hour followed the programme, with fortune telling by Mrs. Bone.

POLITICAL PRESSURE

The report of the Duff Transportation Commission says that, according to the officials of the Canadian National Railways, there was little or no direct political interference by Ministers and Members of Parliament in the detailed operations of the railway. It goes on to say, however, that "it was in the larger sphere that political considerations led to unwise and unnecessary capital expenditures, the result of which was to create an atmosphere in which the ordinary principles of commercial operation of the railway were lost sight of." The year 1929 is taken as a case in point. That was the year of the last Federal election. That year showed what political pressure was able to accomplish. Parliament authorized thirty Canadian National "requirements" amounting to $192,000,000. Actual expenditures during the year amounted to $113,859,000 "without taking into account the refund of maturing securities running into $18,000,000." The net increase in the funded debt of the Canadian National Railways due to the public for the year 1929 was nearly $145,000,000, while the average annual increase for the preceding six years approximated $29,000,000. The report goes on to say:

"When considering the scale of these branch line extensions and acquisitions, as well as hotel expenditures, railway and steamship duplication, it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the board of directors and the management of the National Railways were subject to political influence and pressure, which it would have been in the public interest to have withstood." That was public ownership under the regime of Mr. Mackenzie King. Obviously such Socialization was used to forward the cause of the Liberal Party. That is the clear and unmistakable conclusion reached by the Duff Commission, and the pressure of that socialization was intensified as the date of an election drew near. The money expended were spread throughout various constituencies, and especially in those where the largesse was likely to influence votes. That was the political complexion of the conduct of the Canadian National Railways. The economic complexion is defined by the Duff Commission in the following three paragraphs of the report: "During the nine-year period (1923 to 1931) the Canadian National increased its total assets by $452,325,052, and its total liabilities by $622,430,755. The Canadian Pacific, at the same time, increased its total assets by $253,447,438 and its total liabilities by $266,819,039.

"Had this competition existed between private companies, each dependent upon its own resources to raise the capital and to pay the bill, it is likely that years of adversity would have brought wisdom. But one of these competitors was backed by the long purse of the state, and the consequences of these errors and extravagances must be borne by the taxpayers, and in this connection we must not lose sight of the fact that the Canadian Pacific, the principal rival of the Canadian National Railways, was at the same time the largest taxpayer. "Challenged by the state-subsidized National System the Canadian Pacific felt compelled, in defence of its own interests, to meet the challenge. Now, in the interests of both railways and of the taxpayers of Canada there must be a cessation of aggressive and uncontrolled competition, and while the Canadian Pacific must be afforded proper protection from the state-subsidized activities of the Canadian National, it is not possible to absolve the privately-owned company from a share in the general competitive folly."

A CENTRAL BANK

Mr. Mackenzie King advocates a central bank for the Dominion, presumably Government controlled and directed. The Provincial Liberal Party of British Columbia has endorsed the idea. Needless to say it has the blessing of Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, the leader of the Commonwealth Party; in fact Mr. Woodsworth advocated such an institution by motions in Parliament on three occasions in the past. Mr. Woodsworth now finds himself in agreement with the Liberals in the Federal House. No doubt he will be anxious to give them his support in other measures as well.

Mr. Mackenzie King has not defined what the functions of a central bank would be; neither has Mr. Woodsworth. Both, however, are of opinion that it would be an organization for the extension of credit. In other words, it would provide an opportunity of facilities for a larger number of people throughout the Dominion to mortgage their future to a greater degree than they have in the past. The idea underlying the suggestion advanced by Messrs. Mackenzie King and Woodsworth is that the taxpayers should be the security for credit advanced, instead of, as at present prevails, the lodging of collateral with a bank. The taxpayers as a mass are not well versed in banking business. It is a specious cry that the sources of credit can be loosened up by governmental action. No doubt it will win votes. These votes, however, will come chiefly from those who do not foot the country's taxation bill.

Socialized banking must inevitably mean the safeguarding of people's money at the taxpayers expense. As the experience of the past has so demonstrably proved, each new move in socialization is another step on the road to financial depression. A socialized bank would be in direct competition with private banking institutions. In the minds of the type of politicians who propose such a venture a central bank would exist for the purpose of entering into ruinous competition with existing banking corporations. It would be a duplication of effort; it would be analogous to the wasteful competition which the Canadian National Railways believed to be the purpose of state ownership. A central bank could have done no more and no less in coming to the rescue of the Wheat Pools of the West than the private banks did a short while ago. In both cases there would have had to be Government guarantees, and whatever the character of the institution which advanced the credit it would be the taxpayers who would have to meet the liability. There were Government guarantees to the private banks before the money could be secured to save the Wheat Pools from disaster. Had a central bank been in operation exactly the same guarantees would have had to be forthcoming, and Government guarantees are guarantees of the taxpayers.

There are exhibitions of crass stupidity in the trend of political thought that has arisen out of economic depression. It is a paradox of mental reactions that any set of politicians should propose an intensification of a cause of depression as a means for its relief. It is the extent to which credit has been given that has been a contributory element to abnormal economic conditions. Those clamoring for credit are those who believe that the country owes them the opportunity of getting into debt, even if they have no collateral to offer as security. It is a pertinent thought for consideration as to the extent that the Dominion is able to pay for a policy of socialization. National ownership of railways added over $500,000,000 to the debt of the country in the space of less than a decade, with nothing of the contributions from the Federal Exchequer to make good deficits in the annual statements of the state-owned enterprise. A central bank, devised along the lines proposed by Mr. Mackenzie King, Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, Miss Agnes MacPhail and Mr. T. D. Patullo, would add many millions more to the bill which the taxpayers have ultimately to foot. These politicians want new machinery for grinding the faces of the taxpayers.

Politically speaking the United States seems to be the country where the obvious is continually striking the public imagination. A great hullabaloo has been made of the fact that Mr. Calvin Coolidge is supporting President Hoover. Even a greater commotion is impressing itself on the public imagination because Mr. Alfred Smith has joined the phalanx of followers of Mr. Franklin Roosevelt. That there should be such combination of forces seems obvious, yet reams have been written and myriads of words spoken on the implications of such alliances. Our Mr. J. S. Woodsworth would be in his element in the United States where presidential election campaigns are floated on a deluge of words.

Le Temps does not believe that the Lytton Report will lead to the withdrawal of Japan from the League of Nations. It considers that when there is discussion by the League of Nations of that report next month the delegates of the powers will regard it as confirmation of "what we have never ceased to maintain here; that the real causes of the conflict and all subsequent complications are the result in the first place of the state of political anarchy in which China lived and the systematic and organized boycotting of Japan's products."

Mr. de Valera, whose obstinacy is his distinguishing characteristic as a politician, has returned to Dublin without reaching an agreement with the British Government on the subject of Irish Land Annuities. In the meantime the policy he has adopted is playing havoc with agricultural Ireland. At a cattle fair in Drogheda a few weeks ago not a single beast was sold. The farmers know exactly where the blame rests, and they will not forget.

COMPENSATIONS

These are the things I love—the friendly trees, Fine scented, marmoset, sweet time, and oak; The arid Autumn smelt of drifting smoke; The drowsy hum of honey-seeking bees; The running water of the brown hill-streams; Splashing and singing on their turbulent way; The sun-kissed breath of swallows of new-mown hay; The peaceful coo of pigeons lost in dreams; The crash of waves upon a rocky coast; The soft caress of softly falling rain; The smelt of damp earth when it's fine again— Sweet scents and sounds, that could my eyes not see, Would compensation still provide for me.

Note and Comment

By R. H. D.

In Faith and Hope the world will disappear. But all mankind's concern is Charity.

—Pose.

One of the curiosities of modern life or of modern thought is the concern of the clergy for the newspapers—not the concern of course of the minor canons, who appear to consider conduct of the newspapers none of their business—but the concern of ecclesiastics of the higher order, such as the Deans. We notice, for example, that the eminent Dean of St. Paul's again has been expressing deep regret concerning the present condition of the press. His Eminence, or perhaps he should write His Reverence, has been writing to the journals of the higher order on the interesting subject of the vulgarization of the newspapers. He has been telling readers of the periodicals which disdain publication of news, but which specialize in expressing their opinions and leading public opinion, that he does not know what the newspapers are coming to with the exception of a very few newspapers.

There is at least some consolation in the thought that even a clergyman of the superior order is willing to concede that there are two or three, if not more, newspapers worthy of temporary salvation—for if there were not the whole nation might suffer the consequences which befell the wicked cities which were destroyed by fire and brimstone.

Well, even as a worm will turn, possibly it may be forgiven the newspapers if some of the bolder of the editors thereof were to inquire into the condition of the modern churches. Of course the most daring of modern editors would not have the temerity to declare that the churches have become vulgarized; but surely it would not be traversing the bounds of discretion and risking excommunication by bell, book and candle if even the worm were to turn and declare that the churches are not what they used to be in their influence upon public morals, or even upon social order.

If the churches are not what they used to be in matters which at one time were entirely within their prerogative or their realm, what is the matter with them? If the opinion on this matter, it might have the courage to declare that the matter with the churches is "too many demagogues in the pulpits"; that in too many instances, alas! the house of prayer has become either a house of entertainment or forum for the dissemination of political and economic opinion more likely to provoke hatred upon earth than "peace upon earth and goodwill towards men." That of course may be the ordained mission of the churches, but if it is we have nothing further to say in the matter.

Of course "in churches where Deans have local if not supreme control the services are never permitted to become vulgar; but are conducted with dignity and decorum, although the expositions from the pulpit occasionally may approach the borders of the sensational. The Deans are merely human, after all, and being human, they are deeply concerned about the present conditions of humanity. They are like an eminent journalist who, notwithstanding his somewhat radical social and political views, who declared recently: "The world is in a bad way, and I will make its flesh creep with my diagnosis of the world's disease. The world has gone wrong because it no longer believes in the rights of man. It is of prime importance that we should decide whether or not democracy should be scrapped and the essential rights of man surrendered. I do not allude to the present muddle in the bookkeeping for which this or that pitiful juggling with counters is proposed as a remedy. It would possibly be cheaper and easier if we all did standardized work in standardized factories, wore standardized clothes, ate standardized food, and lived in standardized barracks, with standardized matings under the guidance of experts and standardized offspring when more machine-mindless became necessary."

The point in all this is that to the extent to which the churches have departed from the exposition of the things of the material they have become vulgarized just as surely as the newspapers have become vulgarized, although their mission is strictly secular. The further point is that "those who live in glass houses should not throw stones." The newspapers are not perfect. They are merely trying to do the best they can in their allotted field of activity. Their business is to chronicle, current events, and to the extent of their capacity provide a lamp for the feet of wandering wayfarers through the wilderness.

TESTING GROUND TANKS
Sir—Visitors to your fair city are always aware of its advantages as a sports and residential centre, but the business openings are sometimes overlooked. It is well known that the constant development of farm tractors is to some extent dependent on the use by the research engineer of suitable proving grounds.

In its present condition there is one street in Victoria that affords excellent opportunities for this branch of industry. I refer to the bog situated on Linklater Avenue in the district of Oak Bay. Unfortunately the residents and motorists are not aware of the advantages of this thoroughfare do not seem to realize the advantages of the situation.

The Department of Militia and Defence might even lease it as a testing ground for tanks.

THE KIDD COMMISSION

Sir—I suggested in my previous letter that the strictures of Proctor, the committee of the good faith of the Kidd Commission were without substantial justification. The most serious misrepresentation is to be found not in the report but in the official reply, which charges the committee with ignoring the sinking fund reserves when stating the provincial debt at about $120,000,000. In fact the committee had deducted these reserves in arriving at that figure, and consequently the lecturer's charges of "ignorance or deliberate deception" are more applicable to the critics of the report of the committee than to the committee itself. The members of the committee have rendered a great public service and their good faith is indisputable.

Fourteen years ago, when the debt stood at one-third of its present figure, at the request of the late Premier Brewster, a report was prepared by five leading business men which, concluded—"unless policies were adopted in the early future, the province drifting rapidly down hill to a level dangerously approaching insolvency."

And this rake's progress is not to stop even now, for when the professor turned to the remedy proposals, it transpired that he had nothing better to offer than increased taxation and a blind gamble on a golden era that was, as usual, "round the corner."

I have already denounced futile prophecies of that point, and will only add that politicians and others who can find a safe analogy between the prewar world with London as the cosmopolitan centre of the gold standard and the world of today whose creditor nations have neither the ability nor the will to assist creditor nations should, as the lecturer said, be hanged. Lowerers of reason and logic. Increased taxation of large incomes has been suggested, but when I hinted that this was the last course likely to be adopted by political parties who obtain their sneers of war from the masses, the lecturer appeared to concur. The tendency of increased taxation is to retard and render more difficult the recovery of the economy, and fresh taxes imposed merely always become permanent.

It is on the homes of the ordinary citizen that the chief burden falls. As a recent writer truly says: "We see on all sides honest, worthy, while, law-abiding men, with only good will in their hearts, vainly

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

MASTERS OF BRIDGE

Mr. Michael T. Gottlieb, a member of The Bridge World team of which won the challenge trophy for teams-for at the American Bridge League tournament at Asbury Park last summer, everywhere recognized as one of the world's most brilliant players. In this same event, playing with Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, he also won the masters' pair trophy. Mr. Gottlieb contributes to bridge the brilliancy of conception in the bidding that makes of many of his hands marvelous masterpieces of accurately drawn inferences. His play is usually flawless. An observer recently remarked that while many of the world's ranking bridge players will make the correct lead nine times out of ten, Mr. Gottlieb is so accurate on defense that he invariably makes the correct defense lead, and thereby assures the defeat of many contracts which would otherwise be made.

In the play of the dummy, his team-mates, partners and opponents, accurately draw him the highest praise, and in the hand below played in the masters' pair championship at Asbury Park, he was unquestionably one of the most brilliant in the annals of bridge.

Most of the players reached the same contract as Mr. Gottlieb, so it must be assumed that the bidding was in accord with the master's view as to the value of the hand.

Measured by its honor-rich content, the hand is a borderline slam bid, but the elements of favorable distribution are so great as to justify the slam attempt, particularly in match play. Few of the masters, however, were able to realize in the play the prediction they had made in the bidding. Mr. Gottlieb, by meticulously accurate play, did so.

The opening lead was the heart.

This doubled income would continue from the date of your death until your youngest child became 21 years of age. Then the full face value of the Policy would be paid to your heirs in cash.

If any ordinary policy for say $10,000 became a claim the income from the money, if invested at even 6%, would be only $600 a year. Unusually low type of policy without delay.

fighting to hold together the fruits of their struggle and toil. As owners of their homes they have come to being unpaid agents for the collection of taxes, until, drained dry, they collapse.

The proposal that we should live within our income may not be a "new contribution to economic theory," but it is infinitely preferable to anything the other side has to offer.

Nor can one treat seriously the professor's contribution to the theory of parliamentary government. I was taught by Anson and Dicey that the electors selected their representatives, to whom the Government submits such measures as it may consider desirable from time to time as emergencies arise. How the voters at an election, in which neither political party proposed to make the sacrifices called for by our financial position, can render its verdict on the issue, Professor Angus fails to tell us, and as Browning remarked when asked what was the meaning of his poem "Sordello"—"Only God knows."

One thing is certain, namely, that on practically every occasion when proposals for fresh expenditures have been submitted in recent years to the ratepayers, such proposals have met with crushing defeat.

Lacking the prophetic gift of the professor one cannot be certain of the result of a referendum under universal suffrage on the broad issue, "Do you want the Government to keep its expenditure within its income or to resort to increased taxation?" But I think one can safely say that a democracy, which is unwilling to practice economy after twenty years of riotous living, is digging its own grave.

THE GOLD STANDARD

Sir—In one of your leading articles of 15th inst., Mr. Montague Norman, you praise him because he put Britain back on the gold standard. One of the leading economists of Great Britain in "A Letter to the Prince of Wales" regarding the effects of this false standard says:

"(1) In the first place it meant a contraction of currency supply, and therefore of the purchasing power of the public, causing a depression in our home market and a lessened demand for goods."

"(2) It meant wholesale curtailment or destruction of foreign orders for the reason that by increasing the value of the money foreigners would have to pay more of their currency for a pound of British goods."

"(3) It meant an increase in the costs of production by reason of an increase of the bank rate."

"(4) It meant an increase of taxation with lessened means of payment."

"(5) It meant the inflation of all our debts, together with interest charges on same."

"(6) It meant an era of falling prices, reduced wages, unemployment, and the general misery of the general social misery."

"The taxpayers of this country, owing to the postwar financial measures, are doomed to pay both principal and interest on the war debt in money of twice the value of that which was borrowed."

"A more infamous measure or greater robbery has never been perpetrated in the history of this country."

"By putting this country on the gold basis, our politicians have placed our destinies at the mercy of a group of cosmopolitan money knaves."

During the war, to enable us to carry on, Treasury notes were issued representing our national credit. They were issued by the whole wealth of Great Britain, and not just a few million pounds of gold stored in the vaults of a banking institution.

The Treasury, which has carried us safely through the greatest crisis in the history of the world, they helped us to win the war. They enabled us to achieve results in the field of wealth production that were never previously accomplished.

Some years ago the late Senator Chauncey Depew, in a speech at Washington, said:

"There are fifty men in the United States who can paralyze the entire energies and business interests of this great country."

It is safe today to say that there are fifty men who can paralyze not merely the industries of America, but of the whole world, through their control of credit by means of the gold standard.

"Bankers are experts in the art of routing the guerrillas."

—MUKDEN, Oct. 17.—Japanese headquarters today announced their forces participating in a big anti-guerrilla offensive east of Mukden, which has occupied the railway junction, Tungkuang, an enemy stronghold, and in a pursuit out of Tungkuang had routed the guerrillas.

Good Quality—A block of one of the old timber buildings will be deposited in the Mechanics' Institute to show the wonderful durability of these old buildings under circumstances not favorable to its preservation.

After nearly forty years use, it is as sound as the day it was first put in a grove which stood where Yates and Government Streets now are.

Naval News—Rear Admiral Lyons will arrive at this station in April in the same ship as the one which was accompanied by the Chinese fleet and that a portion of the Chinese fleet will also meet here. In all, it is thought some thirty vessels will assemble at this station.

Philosophy—World has been received here that a heavy poker game is being played in New York between American and British banks. The money is being lost in a big way.

Witchy Caught—Two men made their escape last week from the penitentiary on McNeill's Island, Port Hood. They managed to get up to the roof of the building and through the work of an officer, they were captured again.

First B.C. Labor Battalion Formed In Vancouver Area

Young Militiamen Will Be Concentrated in Single Camp Over Winter to Carry On Work in University Lands Area

BRITISH Columbia's first labor battalion sprang into being yesterday, when the Government passed an order-in-council making provision for the segregation of young men in camps who are members of the nonpermanent active militia, so that these may be placed immediately in a single camp in the university endowment lands area, Point Grey, under military discipline, with the object of carrying out road work in that area during winter months.

Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Lands, explained $20,000 had been set aside out of the university lands funds to cover the initial cost of the scheme. Some three hundred young militiamen will be quartered in tents at the site, offered by a voluntary committee of officers from the Coast Garrison, and under their own noncommissioned officers.

FEDERAL APPROVAL
The plan has already been approved by the Minister of Militia and Defence at Ottawa, and by Dr. W. J. Black, Federal relief agent here. The Dominion Government will contribute the same proportion to the upkeep of the men as when they were cared for in other camps of the province, and in addition will provide tents and working uniforms through military stores.

Details of the scheme were worked out by the Government with Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, general officer commanding Military District 11, in the last few days.

COURSE WAS REQUESTED
The segregation of militiamen in a camp of their own follows a request to that effect made several months ago by Vancouver and Victoria militia organizations, and is aimed at a more direct mode of caring for young men enrolled in active militia units, but temporarily out of work.

The Provincial Government will contribute $7.50 monthly to the men, the same as to those in other camps, with some slight addition in the case of N.C.O.'s. Officers will serve voluntarily, and will be drawn from a volunteer committee to be supplied by Coast militia circles.

The formation of the labor battalion will be for work purposes, and there is no suggestion that the men will be armed. The plan was endorsed at the recent meeting of Western Provinces on relief matters.

TO ESTABLISH COAST PLANT

George J. Mitchell, Manager of Canada Dry Ginger Ale Co., on Western Tour

With a spirit of the greatest optimism with regard to the future, George J. Mitchell, general manager of the famous Canada Dry Ginger Ale, is in Victoria for a few days during the course of a tour of the whole of the West. His company, he says, will establish, perhaps in the near future, a fourth manufacturing centre in the Dominion, by erecting one on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Mitchell, when seen at the Empress Hotel, where he is staying with Mrs. Mitchell for a couple of days, frankly admitted that his trip to the Coast at this time was connected with the possible opening up of another factory to serve the Pacific slope.

At present there are three factories of the company at strategic points across the continent. One is in Montreal, a second in Toronto, and a third, which serves the West, is located in Edmonton. In addition, there are distributing warehouses operated by the company at a number of points intervening and in the extreme East, and in Vancouver on the Pacific. The remaining points are taken care of by commission dealers.

INCREASED BUSINESS
In the Western Provinces this year, Mr. Mitchell says, his company has had an increased business over that of 1931. The situation has been one which could be said to be satisfactory, and all the more so in view of the fact that his organization has had to meet heavy rail charges in the handling of a commodity which must of necessity be retailed at a reasonable price.

The general manager of the Canada Dry Company remarked upon the wonderful change which has taken place on the Prairies this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anderson, former residents of this district, now of Saanich, were recent visitors to Parksville, renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. B. L. Wilcox and her daughter Margaret have returned from spending three months in England visiting friends and relatives. Miss P. Wilcox remained in England to finish her education.

Mr. Bernard Rushon was a recent visitor from Vancouver.

Mr. Royce Bazett, of Vancouver, was a recent visitor to Parksville as the guest of his father, Mr. E. W. Bazett.

Mrs. Allan Ford has returned from Vancouver after a brief visit. Miss Edna Parkin and Mrs. Morrison attended the teachers' convention at Cumberland.

The many friends of Mrs. David Marshall were sorry to hear of the injury she sustained to her hip when slipping on the floor at the Parish Hall. She is a patient in Nanaimo Hospital.

Under the auspices of the Cameron, Nanaimo & Newcastle Agricultural Association, a very enjoyable evening of whist, comprising eleven tables, was held in the Coombs Hall recently. The winning lady was Mrs. Kimmitt; consolation, Mrs. Palmer. Mr. V. Nelson and Mr. Ford were awarded the gentlemen's prizes.

FISHERMAN TIES HIS OWN RECORD

This may sound like another fish story, but J. McGregor, the fisherman who landed what is believed to have been the largest halibut ever brought into the city, caught another one of the same weight and measuring six feet in length yesterday afternoon. The dozen of the deep was captured in approximately the same place as the one which last week broke the record, that is, off Discovery Island in a spot known as the middle bank. The huge fish is on display in the window of Aksey's store, Yates Street.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 18.—With no word from him for more than a month, C. O. Harding, dentist, who left here on August 11 in a fishboat to visit Howe Sound points, is being sought by Provincial Police at the request of his wife, who resides at Elysium Hotel.

Accompanied by James Hefferan, Dr. Harding proposed to do dental work in the Howe Sound settlements. Until a month ago, when he reported from Hillsdale, he either wrote or phoned regularly to Mrs. Harding. She has advised the police that he was not in good health.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home
Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.
From any drugstore, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 10-cup bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—so easy! Thus you make 18 ounces of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and children love its taste.
This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the corn-laden phlegm and saves chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

FOUR-CORNERED CONTEST LOOMS

Three Candidates Definitely in Field for Ward Seven Council Seat

Possibility of at least a four-cornered contest for the Ward Seven seat on the Sanitich Council loomed yesterday when two more candidates in the ward announced themselves, and a third stated he would probably run. Those who have definitely announced themselves as contestants for the post are Samuel Taylor, W. H. Hadley and Tom L. Sargeant, while the other probable candidate is ex-Councillor G. Stanley Eden, who contested the council seat last year.

Mr. Hadley, of 2 Gorge Road West, and Mr. Sargeant, of 3230 Wascana Street, have given their assurance of running after being approached by several ratepayers of the ward.

EX-NAVAL MAN

Mr. Hadley has never entered the municipal contest before, although he has been a Sanitich ratepayer for fifteen years. He was several years in the navy, having served twelve years with the Imperial Navy and six years with the Canadian Navy. He was widely known for many years as the operator of the Gorge Auto Park.

WILL PROBABLY RUN

While ex-Councillor Eden would not state definitely his intentions, he gave assurance that the matter was receiving full consideration and he would probably be in the field. Besides the term which he served on the council, Mr. Eden has shown considerable interest in the welfare of the ward by means of his activities with the Ratepayers' Association. Earlier in the year he was pressed to be a candidate and with the municipal polling drawing nearer, he is being constantly requested to run.

Councillor F. T. Rogers stated last night he was undetermined as to his future intentions. He said he was not prepared at the present time to make any announcement.

Governments Are Near Settlement

Dr. W. J. Black, acting temporarily for the Federal Department of Labor in negotiation with the British Columbia Government on relief matters, left for Vancouver yesterday afternoon to spend a few days on the Mainland investigating various details of the system.

Premier Tolmie announced that the Dominion and Provincial Governments were nearing final settlement of a definite relief policy for coming months; and that only a few details remain to be settled before the British Columbia policy can be announced.

No indication has yet been given as to what the plan will be, but provincial officials seemed much encouraged after discussions with Dr. Black this week.

Rev. Dr. G. B. Switzer, of Oak Bay, and Mrs. Switzer, Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry, of Fairfield, and Mrs. Henry, and Rev. T. H. Nuttall, of Victoria West, were welcomed as new members of the local union while Rev. ANNUAL HARVEST SOCIAL ENJOYED

Rev. Alan Gardiner Compliments St. Saviour's Congregation on Fine Co-operation

Under the auspices of the Men's Club and the Ladies' Guild of St. Saviour's Church, the congregation enjoyed a very pleasant time last evening at the annual harvest thanksgiving supper. Rev. Alan Gardiner, the rector, paid a compliment to the congregation for the way in which they had co-operated during the year in the carrying on of the work of the church.

Mr. Gardiner referred to the financial position in which St. Saviour's stood as a result of the interest manifested by the congregation. Mr. Gardiner called for a continuance of this loyalty on the part of the members of the congregation. Rev. F. L. Stephenson, a former rector of the church, added his felicitations to the congregation with which he had been associated for many years. He congratulated the rector upon the excellent work done. Rev. S. R. Hart expressed his gratification at the showing made and wished well for the church. The church hall was decorated with flowers, pink and yellow predominating. In the decoration scheme the harvest festival was introduced by the presence of vegetables. Mr. J. Eastick had charge of the decorations, which were much admired. Mrs. H. Gard was convenor for the supper arrangement.

In addition to the addresses, a choice programme of music and other features was presented. A church orchestra, under the name of the Mandolin Players, offered selections: Mrs. Sidney Sherratt, B. Gwynne and Masters James and B. B. Temple gave vocal solos. There was community singing, led by H. Gard, which added to the evening's enjoyment.

"RED" RYAN GIVEN CREDIT FOR AID IN QUELLING OUTBREAK

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—The Ottawa Citizen carries the following dispatch from Kingston today:
That "Red" Ryan, at one time regarded as one of the most dangerous bandits in Ontario, played a part in quelling the convicts at the Kingston penitentiary, is the story being told here today, which evidently comes from some person in authority on the inside.

It is stated that a threat was made to set a fire before "Red" Ryan took action, and then he addressed an angry mob of convicts and appealed to them not to start the blaze or do any damage. "For God's sake, men, do not do this! I will not get you anywhere. I tried it one time and it didn't get me any place," he is reported as saying.

It is stated that "Red" Ryan's appeal helped to quiet down the convicts.

Socialists Claim Dollfuss Aspires To Be Dictator

VIENNA, Oct. 18.—Socialist accusations that he is aspiring to become dictator of Austria are being made against Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

The Chancellor is charged by the Socialists with showing favoritism to the Heimwehr (home guard) when he refused from mentioning them in a decree prohibiting all National Socialist and Communist parades or open-air gatherings in Vienna.

The decree is interpreted as a method of making a semi-official auxiliary police force out of the Heimwehr and has aroused the ire of all Socialists.

Unemployed Make Protest to Council—Legion to Guard Honor Roll

NANAIMO, Oct. 18.—The regular meeting of the local council was held last evening, with Mayor Barsby presiding.

From the secretary of the local branch of the N.U.W.A. a communication was received which stated that, at a meeting of the association held last Tuesday night, a resolution was passed asking the council to consider the reduction of water rates for relief money was unanimously passed.

The letter went on further to state that it was the opinion of the meeting that the council should arrange for the supply of water to unemployed who found themselves unable to pay for it, and also, in view of the fact that extra fuel would be needed during the winter months, the meeting protested the reduction in relief, as that previously received had been inadequate. The letter was received and filed, on motion.

TO MEET DELEGATION

On motion of Alderman Inkster, a request from A. Crumb, secretary of the N.U.W.A. executive, that the council in committee meet a delegation of the association, was granted.

A letter from the executive of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities stated the cost of conducting the business of the union during the past year had been very heavy and the co-operation of each council was necessary to continue the fight for the rights of municipalities.

The executive had decided to make another assessment this year and trusted the council would grant the request. The letter also stated the executive was determined to continue the fight for the removal of the unjust charges put upon the municipalities at the last session of the Legislature and would press for the entire removal of those social service charges. On motion of Alderman Dixon, the matter was referred to the finance committee for action.

A letter was received from the Provincial Finance Minister, who said he was in receipt of the city's letter of October 11, in which the city of Nanaimo applied for a loan of $20,000 from the Federal Government under Bill 72 to cover its proportion of relief costs.

WAITING FOR REPLY

The letter further stated that some time ago an application was made for a sum which the Provincial Government thought would be sufficient to meet the needs of certain municipalities in the province during this critical period. To date no reply had been received from the Federal Government, however. The council was assured that as soon as a reply was received the council's application would receive consideration. On motion of Alderman Cavallary, the letter was referred to the finance committee for action.

A request of George A. Barclay, on behalf of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, that the honor roll of citizens who enlisted for the Great War, and which is now in the City Hall, be handed over to the Legion for safekeeping, was granted on motion of Alderman Dixon.

Get Rid of That SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. Use it freely; it does not hurt the heart.

CHAPTER XXVII

Ma Price was intensely sober and very apprehensive. She deeply mistrusted the look of things. She was a woman who, like some ancient Greek or Roman, was accustomed to rule her life in accordance with signs and omens, and when Tony had burned her statement that afternoon in the barber shop she had regarded the action, as Sir Herbert Bassinger had explained to Mr. Wetherby, in the light of a broad hint from above that in signing that document she had done the wrong thing and had better be careful in future.

In this faith she had held firm against all arguments and entreaties for a full two weeks, and then, just as she had become convinced that she was working along the right lines, another sinister portent in the shape of a black cat, which crossed her path halfway down Mott Street, when she was on her way to the Caterpillar and Jug, and now she didn't know where she was.

In the matter of black cats, the opinion of the public is sharply divided. One school of thought regards them as harbingers of good fortune, a second as a sign of impending calamity, and there is a third and smaller group which holds them to be a warning. It was to this section that Ma Price belonged. She did not yet know what she was being warned against, but she felt she had been warned.

Her manner, therefore, as she entered the room, was a compound of gloom and weariness. She looked like a female Daniel dimly entering a den of lions.

"Yes, Mr. Price," said Sir Herbert.

"Yes, Sir Herbert," responded Daniel, eyeing this leading lion nervously.

"Take a seat," said Lady Lydia, with a look of loathing and an infection in her voice which suggested that she would have preferred to offer her visitor a cup of hemlock.

"Thank you, Lady Lydia," said Sir Herbert, "is Mr. Wetherby, the family solicitor?"

Ma Price, who had seated herself on the extreme edge of a chair with infinite caution, half rose and looked agitatedly at the question.

"What's a figment?" asked Ma Price guardedly.

Mr. Wetherby uttered another of his coughs, supplementing it this time by rapping in a sinister manner on his desk with the edge of his spectacle case.

"I would like to ask you a few questions," he said. "Are you a great reader, Mrs. Price?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were you a great reader—shall we say, sixteen years ago?"

"Yes, sir."

"Of what type of literature?"

"I liked me Family Herald."

"Ah! And did you often go to the theatre in those days?"

"If there was a good melodrama, I did."

"Quite! Now attend to me, Mrs. Price. May I remind you that this changing of one baby for another of greater rank has been the basis of a hundred Family Herald novels, and is such a stock situation of melodrama that the late W. S. Gilbert satirized it in his poem, 'The Baby's Vengeance'?"

"I will tell you what I am getting at," I suggest to you that your story is nothing but a fairy tale arising from too much Family Herald, too much melodrama, and—may I say—too much unsweetened gin?"

"Mrs. Price," said the lawyer.

"You appear apprehensive."

"Mr. Wetherby," interpreted Sir Herbert, "means that you seem nervous."

"Not nervous, exactly, Sir Herbert. But what with havin' a uniformed chauffeur sent for me and the luxury of ridin' in a big car and all, me 'ead's swimmin'."

"I see. Well, calm yourself, Mrs. Price. You have nothing to fear, provided . . . eh, Wetherby?"

"Quite," assented the lawyer.

"Provided she tells the truth."

"The whole truth," said Lady Lydia.

"And nothing but the truth."

"And nothing but the truth."

"And nothing but the truth."

"And nothing but the truth."

SQUAMISH INDIANS PASS OUT OF TITLE BARROSSE

Leading Meralomas Grid Team to Meet Collegians Tonight

Big Four Leaders and Varsity Will Hook Up in Important Game—Schedule Speeded Up to Accommodate Champion Alberta Squad

VANCOUVER, Oct. 18 (CP).—Leading the British Columbia Big Four Canadian Football League with a perfect record of two wins and no losses to date, Meralomas tonight will meet the University of British Columbia in what is a crucial game for the students.

The Kitanalo squad, the smoothest working grid machine seen in action here this season, are confident of coming out on the right side of the score and increasing their consecutive wins to three. With the playing schedule at the halfway mark, a win tomorrow night will practically clinch the title for Meralomas, while a loss will mean elimination of Varsity's title aspirations.

So far the Kitanalo crew is the only one to withstand a deluge of upsets that have occurred since the opening of the schedule. They downed V.A.C. last year's provincial titleholders, 3 to 0 in the opening game. Then they came back to trounce Westminster 30-6 in their second appearance. In the meantime Westminster, after winning from Victoria, dropped a decision to Varsity, then came back last Saturday to down V.A.C. The Vacs defeated Victoria and Varsity to take second place in the standings with the Royal City squad.

Varsity and Victoria are at the bottom, with a win and two losses each.

SCHEDULE SPEEDED UP
"Big Four" schedules were ruthlessly swept aside yesterday when an unexpected ultimatum from Arnold C. Dowd, president of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union, decreed that Calgary Altamira Tigers, Alberta champs, should meet the winner of the British Columbia championship on a Vancouver gridiron on November 5. This comes as a distinct surprise, as the date for the British Columbia-Alberta inter-provincial play-off was originally billed for November 11.

The telegram containing the conditions was received yesterday afternoon by Jack Bentham, secretary of the "Big Four," and a hurried special meeting was called of league representatives last night to consider ways and means to conclude the already abbreviated schedule before the arrival of the Calgary team.

A solution was finally arrived at by moving the Meraloma-V.A.C. conflict from its intended date on November 5 to make it a night game on October 26 at Athletic Park. This decision places a heavy burden on the championship aspirations of the Meralomas, as they will be forced to play four games in two weeks, and if they are successful in winning the Lipton Trophy, they will go into a two-game series with the Calgary Tigers with only a week's rest. It is expected that the first game of the Alberta-British Columbia series will be played on Saturday afternoon, November 5, at 2:30, with the second game on Wednesday night, November 10, at 8:00.

With upsets playing an unparalleled part in "Big Four" history, anything may happen before a champion is decided for British Columbia. Should the league end in a three-way tie for first place between Meralomas, New Westminster and V.A.C., or even a tie between two teams, will be necessary to play an additional game on the night of November 2 to decide the victor.

For the series with the Altamira Tigers it is planned to issue "booster" tickets at a reduced figure for both games. British Columbia will be under the burden of a heavy guarantee. Season ticket holders will be admitted to both games at reduced prices.

RIBBONS WILL FACE BEAVERS IN CAGE DUEL

Strong Senior 'A' Hoopmen to Battle at High Gymnasium This Evening

RAYSHINES WILL TACKLE HARMONY

Skinner "Chuck" Chapman and his smooth-working cage machine bearing the colors of Blue Ribbons, will be out after their third consecutive victory in the men's senior "A" company in the Victoria and District Basketball League this evening at the Victoria High School gymnasium, when they clash with Beavers in the feature fixture on the card. Both quietlies at beginning of the hit mid-season form, and a fast exhibition is expected. Green Mill and J.B.A.A. will open the card at 7:30 o'clock in the men's senior "B" division, while the Rayshines and Harmony will take the court in the second session in the women's senior "B" league. Tommy Macdonald will handle the whistle.

Ribbons opened the season with a win over 5th Regiment, and then tumbled the Beavers for their second straight decision. After losing to the Ribbons, Beavers hit on all cylinders in their second exhibition and came through with a great win over C.P.S. after a thrilling second-period rally. Ribbons will have the Chapman brothers, Art and Chuck, Johnny Craig, Joe Ross, Tommy Little, A. McKee, and M. J. Macdonald in uniform, while the Beavers will depend on Gordie Moore, Fraser, Ian McDonald, Chuck Preston, George Robertson, Fred McDonald, Goldsmith, Tubman and Bill Levy to bring them through.

WOMEN'S GAME
Rayshines, like the Ribbons, will also be after victory No. 3 in succession. Coach Le Marquand has a fine squad lined up under Rayshines' colors, and has visions of capturing the women's crown this season. Mary Peden, Tote Benne and Mary Wilson will work on the forward line, while Ruby Bethel and Eleanor Trotter will look after the back division. The Bernard sisters and P. Bentley are the reserves. Coach Bob Whyte will have Harmony at full strength with the Alexander sisters, Isabel and Cathy, Zee Richards, Elsie Matthews, Beanie Armstrong, Muriel Hall and E. Creed on deck.

The Green Mill-J.B.A.A. fixture is expected to give the fans plenty of action from whistle to whistle. The cafe men will have Jones, Baker, Smith, Bradley, Williams, Hill, Cadwell, Pettitrew and Woods, while the oarsmen will march out Scott, Burnett, Smith, Stipe, Taylor, Elliott and Clarke.

M'LAUGHLIN AND SLATER ARE MATCHED

Flashy Vancouver Middleweight to Face Chicagoan at Pacific Stadium

Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver's flashy middleweight, who has met some of the best men of his weight during his career, will appear in the five eight-minute round semi-wind-up attraction on promoter "Winthrop" Chilton's wrestling card at the Pacific Stadium, Friday evening.

The Mainlander's opponent will be Jack Slater, of Chicago, a fast, rugged, grappler, who will be showing his wares here for the first time. The local matchmaker has not yet announced his main event, but stated yesterday that he would have a first-class matmen here for the fans.

McLaughlin's record speaks for itself. He has met and defeated some of the best middleweights in the business and now boasts of a record that is hard to match.

Slater, who recently arrived in the Northwest from the East, also has a fine record and will step in the ring confident of stopping the Vancouver lad.

CHUCK KLEIN VOTED BEST IN NATIONAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—As the climax to his story toward the top, Charles Herbert (Chuck) Klein, of Indianapolis, clean-up cloutier of the Philadelphia Athletics, today emerged as the choice of the baseball experts for the distinction of being the National League's most valuable player during the 1932 season.

Klein was third in the 1930 voting and runner-up to Frankie Frisch, St. Louis Cardinal captain, last year. His selection was announced by J. Roy Stockton, of St. Louis, chairman of the Writers' Association of America committee.

WARNEKE SECOND

The Phillie right fielder, now generally regarded among the greatest all-around ballmen in the major leagues, won the honor from Lonnie Warneke, Chicago Cubs' sensational freshman pitcher, and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, of Brooklyn, league batting champion, in a brisk three-cornered contest.

Klein received 78 out of a possible maximum of 80. Warneke was next with 68 points; O'Doul finished with 58; Paul Waner, of the Cubs, with 57 and 42, respectively, completed the top five.

Frank Frisch, 1931 winner, received only three points, one less than the young St. Louis pitcher, and W. Prest. The women's committee elected was Miss P. Hogan, captain; Mrs. W. Morten, vice-captain; Mrs. A. H. Peterson, secretary; Miss C. V. Bond, Mrs. J. S. Robinson and Mrs. G. G. Shere.

Argonauts Take Lead in Second Quarter to Win Easily—Prairie Team Captures Two-Game Series by 28-19 Count—Will Meet Eastern Winners for Canadian Championship

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18 (CP).—Manitoba Argonauts, champions of the Western Canada box lacrosse championship, today defeated Squamish Indians, British Columbia-Alberta winners, by a 16-to-7 score to take the two-game series by a 28-to-19 total. The teams battled to a 12-all draw in the first game last night. Total goals decided the series.

Starting off with a fast clip, the first period witnessed plenty of action and ended in a 2-2 deadlock. The Argos took the lead in the second to pile up six goals, and from then on pounded them in fast and furiously.

Play in the first quarter opened at a rapid pace and both goalies were called upon to stop a number of hot drives in the first couple of minutes. Argos went to the front at the 2:30 mark, when Harold Benson picked up a loose ball and drove it past Baker. Stan Josephs evened the count soon after. The teams went to their dressing-rooms with the score deadlocked at two-all. Harold Benson and Bill Morphet accounted for the other two tallies in this quarter.

ARGOS TAKE LEAD

It was all "even" again in the first few minutes in the second canto, but the Argos forged to the front at the nine-minute mark and then on were in the van. A couple more quick goals and they assumed an 8-to-5 lead when the sandwich session ended.

In the third quarter, and although Argos did not have things just their own way they outplayed their opponents in every department of the game. They scored five goals, while the redmen were able to reply with only one.

Entering the last fifteen minutes of the long end of a 13-to-6 score, the locals appeared to have the game tucked away. They were not content, however, to lay back. They came through with another three tallies in this session, while the Squamish got a singleton.

VINES AND MRS. MOODY RATED BEST IN TENNIS

English Expert Places Two U.S. Players on Top

California Stars Rated First by Sir Francis Gordon Lowe—"Bunny" Austin Placed Tenth—Miss Heeley and Mrs. Whittington Ranked Fifth and Seventh, Respectively

ELLAWORTH VINES, of first-class men and women players, continues to increase its present rate, to do full justice to it will be necessary to include twenty of each sex.

"My list of the ten best men is as follows:

1. Ellsworth Vines (U.S.A.).
2. Jean Borotra (France).
3. H. Cochet (France).
4. W. Allison (U.S.A.).
5. C. Sutter (U.S.A.).
6. Daniel Prenn (Germany).
7. J. B. Crawford (Australia).
8. S. B. Wood (U.S.A.).
9. G. Von Cramm (Germany).
10. H. W. Austin (England).

"Vines for the first time easily jumps into first place with a wonderful season behind him. His successes include the singles championship of England and America, also the doubles championship of the latter with Cochet, all scored before he was twenty-two.

COCHET THIRD

"Borotra comes second, above Cochet, through keeping the Davis Cup safe for France.

"Allison, who comes fourth, has had a highly successful season, including a magnificent effort in the Davis Cup challenge round, two early season victories over Vines and a place in the last four at Forest Hills.

"By their splendid play in the Davis Cup competition against ourselves, Italy and finally America, Prenn and Von Cramm gain the sixth and ninth places, respectively.

"Jack Crawford at seven is probably rated rather high, but he is a beautiful stylist and early hiter of the ball, and unlike Austin has the strength to put his game into effect.

"Solely through overplay, Fred Perry, who just missed a place, has failed to do himself justice, though I shall expect to see him well up again next year. Gledhill, Van Ryn, Menzel and Lee might also easily have been included in the list while knocking loudly on the door as young Bernard, Jones, Parker and Meritt, Shields, Lott and Sison have been disappointing.

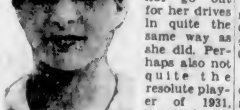

RANKING WOMEN

"The ten best women work out as follows:

1. Mrs. Wills Moody (U.S.A.).
2. Miss Jacobs (France).
3. Mrs. Mathieu (U.S.A.).
4. Fraulein Krahwinkel (Germany).
5. Miss Heeley (England).
6. Miss L. Payot (Switzerland).
7. Mrs. Whittington (England).
8. Miss Sigart (Belgium).
9. Miss Jedrzajowska (Poland).
10. Mrs. Caroline Badcock (U.S.A.).

"Mrs. Wills Moody this season has maintained her wonderful consistency of not having lost a set since 1927 and is again easily at the top.

"After the other Helen there is an uncertain story to tell. Mrs. Mathieu is placed third because she has lately lost a set, but she remains the best woman player in Europe, and she does not get out for her dross in quite the same way as she did. Perhaps also not quite the resolute player of 1931, Fraulein Krahwinkel nevertheless her hardest match of the season in Paris, and

MRS. MOODY gave Mrs. Moody match of the season in Paris, and on general performances deserves fourth place.

"Having fought through to the last four at Wimbledon, and with several other wins on the continent and elsewhere, including a victory over Mrs. Mathieu at the Bouquet, Miss Heeley is placed fifth.

"Though bitterly disappointing at times, Mrs. Whittington is still a prominent and romantic figure on the feminine side, and maintains her seventh place.

"Miss Sigart, the winner of the women's doubles at Wimbledon with Miss Heeley, is the most versatile girl on the list.

"Miss Jedrzajowska is another newcomer to high honors, but she demonstrated by her successful invasion of Wales and Ireland after Wimbledon that she is equally good on grass and on the hard courts of her native Warsaw.

"Out of compliment to American women, who hold the Wightman Cup, Miss Caroline Badcock completes the list."

JIMMIE FOXX VOTED BEST

A's First Baseman Declared Most Valuable in American League

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP).—Jimmie Foxx, the Maryland mauler and new home run king of the major leagues, is the choice of the experts as the American League's most valuable player for the 1932 campaign.

The first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, by polling 75 points out of a maximum of 80 in the vote conducted by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, beat his New York rival, "Larry" Lou Gehrig, by a decisive margin.

Gehrig, winning in 1927, and now runner-up for the third successive year, received 50 points.

The selection of Foxx makes the most valuable player contest an all-Philadelphia affair this year. Chick Philadelphia, outfielder slinger, already has been designated as the outstanding star of the year, in preference to Lou Warneke, of the Cubs, and Lefty O'Doul, of the Dodgers.

Of the third of Connie Mack's outstanding stars to gain the individual distinction within the past five years, Mickey Cochrane won the official award in 1928. Bob Grove was the choice last year.

REGINA SIGNING FORMER AMERICAN LEAGUE PLAYERS

REGINA, Oct. 18.—Regina's entry in the Western Canada Professional Hockey League will be composed practically wholly of players from the American League, according to Kenny MacKenzie, mentor of the Regina entry in the new league.

MacKenzie, who is at present busy making local playing arrangements, said today he had been negotiating with players of the American League and had secured their consent to play in the new Western loop, but that their releases by President Frank Calder were necessary before he could make their names public.

While refusing to divulge names of the players approached, MacKenzie said many of them had appeared in the West as Simon-pure but none as professionals.

Scores Notable Successes

Central Press Canadian Staff Writer.

Aga Khan, famous race horse owner and head of all the Mohammedans of his caste, and what is still more interesting, who can't live in India for health reasons, is the luckiest chap under the sun if one looks through statistics for the English flat racing season, just closing.

When the smug, bespectacled native of India doesn't win outright, something happens so that the first horse is disqualified and Aga Khan scores again.

The latest triumph of the man for whom lower caste natives of India pay good money for his bath water, occurred in the Middle Park Stakes, the feature race for two-year-olds in the English season. The horses in this race are generally conceded the pick of the babies, and generally provide a line on the probabilities for next year's Derby.

This year the Middle Park favorite was Manibato, Lord Woolavington's colt, and this baby won the race. Felicitations from Aga Khan's stable, was second. There were objections to Manibato and these were sustained, and the race went to Aga Khan.

It is almost amazing the consistency with which Aga Khan has topped a lot of the high prizes on the British turf this season. His famous Dastar was only beaten by a length for first honors in the Derby. And there are hosts of other races that the famous prince of India has won this season. In fact, he has won more money on the British turf this season than any other owner.

New York Stock Trading Livelier To Some Extent

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Stocks refused to be smothered completely out of an early rally by late selling of the tobacco account shares today, and the market closed generally higher, nearly canceling Monday's losses.

Trading was again dull, although livelier than yesterday. It also had a highly professional appearance. Commodity markets were virtually unchanged at the close.

Net gains of 1 to 3 points in the rail, industrial and utility groups made the tobacco look especially soft, although they finished above their lows. American Tobacco "B" and Liggett & Myers "B" were down nearly 4 at one time, closing 2 1/2 lower.

Transactions totaled 1,029,400 shares. Weakness of the British pound provided an outstanding feature in financial developments outside the security markets.

Sterling's break was attributed largely to withdrawal of support by the Bank of England, which for some time had been keeping the quotation fairly steady.

There have been several such periods of support since July payments lapsed. After each the pound has been allowed to seek a lower level. Great Britain is now paying for seasonal imports of commodities, notably wheat and cotton. Furthermore, with the loan conversion accomplished, it may have been decided maintenance of recent rates was less desirable. Also, it was reported some British buying of United States stocks and bonds had ceased.

The bond market was almost exclusively an American governmental affair today, new high prices for the year being recorded by two Federal loans, while domestic corporate securities moved about in a dull and uncertain manner.

Government issues benefited principally from the lowest money rates in many years and from the pre-emptive decline of most foreign exchange in favor of the dollar. New 1932 notes were reached by Treasury 3-8's, while Liberty 3-1/2's and fourth 4-1/4's equaled their year's best quotation.

Transactions in listed Government obligations aggregated about $2,000,000, while the day's turnover in all bonds totaled only $8,797,000 net value.

In the foreign department, British 5-1/2's were the most active, advancing to a new high for 1932, 3/4 of the Canadians were reactionary.

MORE ACTIVITY IN GRAIN MARKETS Pivotal Leaders Up In Quiet Session of Eastern Exchanges

Wheat Futures Close Fractionally Higher at Winnipeg Exchange

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18 (CP).—A moderate amount of export work followed overnight enabled wheat prices to mark time in a slightly more active session on the grain exchange here today and futures closed fractionally higher than unchanged.

October closed at 48 1/4. November at 48 1/4. December at 48 1/4. May at 51 1/4. July at 51 1/4. September at 51 1/4.

Early hedging sales were absorbed by seaboard houses, and the December future was kept steady at 50 cents by the continued support of a large interest which has been backing the market for some days. Export was estimated at something under 700,000 bushels.

Offerings of all grades of cash wheat were light, and only a very small business was reported done. A little inquiry for low-grade oats was reported, but no business confirmed in any coarse grain commodity.

SUGAR IN URINE NOT ALWAYS DIABETES

DIABETES

It is only natural when an individual learns that his urine contains sugar that he immediately believes that he has diabetes and may have to use insulin if his life is to be saved.

Now, the fact that there is sugar in the urine must never be ignored, because this is the first sign in diabetes, but it must never be forgotten that, on the other hand, there may be sugar in the urine at times in many cases, and yet not due to diabetes.

If the examination of the urine has been made shortly after eating a starchy meal, it is not unusual to find a trace of sugar in the urine of many normal individuals.

What often happens is that the patient may be suffering with some infection in the system—infected teeth or tonsils, some intestinal disturbance—which poisons the blood to a considerable extent, and results in some sugar in the urine. Dr. Hirsch has shown that an increase in sugar occurs in rabbits injected with vaccines.

In some old skin infections, and also when some vaccines have been injected into the blood, sugar is often found in the urine.

The big point of course is that in these cases there is really nothing wrong with the pancreatic gland. In diabetes, as you know, the pancreatic gland fails to do its work properly, and sugar is thrown out of the system by the urine that should have been used to give the body energy.

In these cases where the sugar in the urine is not due to diabetes, it has been found that the alkali reserve of the blood has been lowered, that is the blood more nearly approaches an acid condition. As the sugar increases the alkali decreases.

Research physicians report a number of cases of infections of the skin in which there was sugar in the urine, the sugar disappearing from the urine when the skin infection was cured.

The thought then is that should a single sample of urine show sugar there should be a number more samples taken. And even if the sugar persists other symptoms or disturbances of the system should be investigated, such as bad teeth, bad tonsils, sluggish intestine or old skin infections, before a diagnosis of true diabetes may be given.

The works clerk approached the foreman of the factory.

"Any accidents to report?" he asked.

"One," replied the foreman, and handed over the report. It read:

"Date: November 2. Nature of accident: Badly crushed toe. How caused: Blow from hammer (accidental). Remarks:

"Why no remarks?" asked the clerk.

"Well," said the foreman, "seeing as 'ow you know Bill, and seeing as 'ow you know what crushed 'is toe, ain't you got no imagination?"

At the Theatres

EMPIRE According to the London critics there is a new star in the British film firmament—Heather Angel. Heather first attracted their 100 per cent attention when they saw her in "Self-Made Lady," the film which is now at the Empire Theatre. "The unanimous opinion was (and still is) that with average luck Miss Angel will be right at the top of the talkie tree in a very short time. She is a type of young actress new to British talkies."

PLAYHOUSE "Leftover Ladies," now at the Playhouse Theatre, Tiffany Productions' latest feature with Claudia Dell, Marjorie Rambeau, Walter Byron and Alan Mowbray in the cast, is based on an original article published in "The Mentor Magazine" by Ursula Parrott. Mrs. Parrott's ideas have

"LO, THE POOR INDIAN!"
 "Where," writes a reader, "does the expression, 'Lo, the poor Indian,' originate? It seems always to be used satirically, in the sense that we may feel sorry for the poor Indian, but in truth he is superior to us."
 We have these words from Alexander Pope's famous "Essay on Man."
 It occurs in the sentence:
 "Lo, the poor Indians, whose untutored mind see the God in clouds or hears Him in the wind."
 That will explain the satirical use to which our reader refers.

REVIEW ART OF GREAT NOVELIST

W. B. Langman and Very Rev. C. S. Quantin Address Dickens Fellowship

The Dickens Fellowship of this city listened on Monday to an appreciation of the work of Charles Dickens by W. B. Langman, the speaker traced the life of Dickens, who had been reared in poverty and was unable to join in the sports of the boys of his own age. He had no companions except the creations of his own imagination, said Mr. Langman. The novels of Dickens gave a wonderful cross section of the life from the highest to the lowest of his times. These writings comprised the truest history of the life of those times.

Dickens was ever the champion of the down-trodden, and the advantages that the poor had now in that country was due, in large measure to the writings of Dickens and the effect that they had upon the reforming of the laws of that country, he stated.

Many who had never seen England knew the London of his time. His descriptions of streets and its palaces and the other contrasts that existed there through the writings of Dickens. The same applied to the countryside of England, which had become familiar to the world through the wonderful writings of this novelist.

ADVICE ON READING
 Dear students, who are reading Dickens, be a Dickens student, but who said he was a Dickens admirer, spoke upon reading. He declared that the object of reading was to gain the experience of others. In this way it was possible to live with those who had seen more and thought more than themselves.

In offering advice as to reading, the speaker asserted that the rule followed was "read what interests you. If you read trash, you think trash," said the Dean. "If you think trash, you become trash."

He was surprised that there were no more reading clubs in the city of Victoria.

FINE PROGRAMME
 In addition to the addresses, there was a well-selected programme of music and other features, all relating to Dickens and his work. Mrs. John Gough contributed piano solos which represented scenes from Dickens' writings. Edith C. Howell, Mrs. S. M. Morton, and Llewellyn Jones rendered solos. Captain Wilfrid Ord gave character readings from the writings of Dickens.

A. W. Arnup, the secretary of the fellowship, said that he had on many occasions seen the author and heard him speak. He had known all the haunts of Dickens in London in his day. Mr. Arnup announced that the Christmas gathering arranged by the fellowship of Dickens would provide the programme of the evening was Frank Paulding, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., who spoke on "Personality."

Supper was served by ladies of the Women's Guild, and solos were offered by E. Durant, accompanied by Jesse Langford. The evening was given by Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, pastor, and Arnold Trevett, after which an executive pro tem was appointed, consisting of the following: John Simpson, Arnold Trevett and Leonard Hall. The next meeting will be held on November 14.

New Church Group To Be Organized
 Plans for organizing a Men's Fellowship Club of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were commenced at a well-attended supper meeting held in the church on Monday. The meeting was under the leadership of Leonard Hall, and the speaker of the evening was Frank Paulding, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., who spoke on "Personality."

Burgess Bedtime Stories
 An Old Trick Works
 By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Old things are often best, you'll find:
 "This will to keep this fact in mind."
 —Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit had taken a chance, but Peter knew what he was doing when he did it. While Flip the Terrier had his back to him he had darted out from under Farmer Brown's henhouse and passed Flip before the latter knew what was happening. Behind, under the henhouse, he had left Robber the Rat. Great as was his chance he was taking, he felt that it was better than to have remained. Now Peter was heading for the old stone wall on the edge of the Old Orchard. He had counted on so surprising Flip that he would get a good lead before the latter could get started, and in this he was successful.

But Flip is quick, wonderfully quick, and it was only for a minute that he was confused. Then he started after that bobbing white tail of Peter's at a rate that made Peter, fast as he was running, seem slow.

"Go it, Peter!" screamed Welcome Robin, who had seen the start.

"Run, Peter, run!" shrieked Sammy Jay, who happened to be flying over on the way to the Old Orchard. "Oh, dear, he'll never get there!" twittered Skimmer the Swallow, darting down just above Flip and wishing he were big like Redtail the Hawk with just such great claws.

And it did look as if Skimmer was right. Flip was gaining on Peter so fast that unless something happened Peter never would get to that old stone wall. Peter knew this quite as well as did anyone else. He proposed to make something happen.

If there is one thing Peter Rabbit can do better than another it is dodge. At dodging when running at full speed he is what is called a past master, which means that there is none better. It is an old trick, this dodging. But some old tricks are better than new ones. Peter, looking behind with every jump by merely rolling back his eyes, waited until Flip was almost at his very heels and putting on an extra burst of speed. Then he dodged as only he can dodge and was off at full speed in quite another direction. Flip couldn't turn like that. Neither could he stop instantly. He did the best he could, but he was going so fast that he over-ran quite a distance and even after those four nimble legs of his had stopped moving he slid several feet. By the time he had stopped, turned and started off in the new direction after Peter the latter had gained a lot.

Once more Flip got under way and was heading the distance between the two grew rapidly less and less. Once more it looked as if Peter was running his last race. Once more Welcome Robin and Sammy Jay screamed encouragement and Skimmer the Swallow was in despair and wished he could lend Peter some of his own wonderful speed. And all three wondered where Peter was making for. In this new direction he wasn't headed for the old stone wall.

Day screamed encouragement and Skimmer the Swallow was in despair and wished he could lend Peter some of his own wonderful speed. And all three wondered where Peter was making for. In this new direction he wasn't headed for the old stone wall.
